Love your garden

with Composite Wood

Low maintenance timber alternative decking, fencing and garden rooms from Composite Wood Company are the environmentally friendly way to enjoy your garden all year round.

Unlike plastic decking and fencing, Composite Wood has the natural beauty and feel of real wood. With 60% timber content, it offers all the benefits of wood without the splinters or maintenance.

Composite Wood Company decking and fencing is fully RoHS Green Product compliant and is manufactured from recycled material, making it the green choice for your garden.

Durable, strong with lifelong beauty
Composite Wood Company garden products are made using a unique homogenous wood polymer construction that maintains its high performance for years and years without the need for time consuming maintenance and painting.

Composite Wood Company products are constructed from ethically sourced, traceable recycled wood from timber mills and recycled plastic polymer.

Our RoHS Green Product compliant manufacturing process uses only the best quality, unsoiled wood content.

Garden Offices

Ready to go to work with a low maintenance, fully insulated, timber alternative Composite Wood garden office.

More people are choosing to work from home so they can be flexible with their time and to avoid the daily commute.

Finding a space to concentrate away from the distractions of the house can be difficult though.

A garden office is one of the most practical ways to create a dedicated space for working from home. It lets you have a personal space all to yourself to help you concentrate.

Do I need planning permission for a Composite Wood Garden Room?

In most cases you will not need planning permission to erect a garden room - if the eaves height is under 2.5 and it doesn't project beyond the front wall of your house.

In general, adding a stand-alone, single storey garden room to the rear or side garden is usually allowed under Permitted Development.

However, we recommend that you check the Government's Planning Portal online before starting any work on a garden room to ensure you comply with the rules. The planning portal refers to garden rooms as outbuildings.
