Traditional rooms for living today

Throughout the seventeenth century, the grand houses of Europe boasted magnificent orangeries. These temples of light and grandeur were proud symbols of status amongst the very rich and powerful.

Although centuries have passed, the elegant airy appeal of a gracefully-proportioned orangerie has remained a highly desirable feature of any residence.

And now all that history, artistry, heritage and beauty are available for you to enjoy in your own home - with either traditional or contemporary styling.

Let the light flood into your home

A correctly-designed and built orangery is a spacious light-filled extension to your home. Bright throughout the day, making the most of the natural light being thrown in from above, and cosy or intimate at night to suit your mood.

With slender lines, plentiful windows and a large glazed atrium to open up the roof space to the skies, an orangery allows light to flood in from the great outdoors, illuminating its own space and the rooms it adjoins.

Inside, the pillars help to create an air of privacy while the elevated roof space gives you room to unwind and relax.

Outside, careful attention to design creates a stunningly attractive and seamless extension to your home, matching or complimenting your existing architectural style.

An orangery adds enjoyment to your life - and value to your home.

Orangeries like no other

Our orangeries offer you a vast world of choice.

Whether you prefer wood, PVCu or aluminium materials, natural timber, traditional white or coloured paint finishes, classic simplicity or ornate decorative flourishes, we can accommodate all your own design ideas.

Let your imagination run free and you can influence every last detail, right down to the final finishing touch of the roof finials.

We can cater for your every whim, making your orangery absolutely unique - a one off reflection of your true taste.

And there's absolutely nothing more satisfying than that.

Orangeries like no other

Intricately designed and beautifully built

Unlike many orangerie designs, ours are not limited to the basic standard rectangle.

Our patented method for creating the roof space into which the glass atrium sits - the single most important feature separating an orangerie from a conservatory - allows us a flexibility that other companies can't hope to match.

We create bespoke designs exclusively for you. No matter what shape your house is, no matter where you would like your orangerie to sit, no matter what shape you'd like it to be, our design team can make it happen.

And we can do it in a way that maintains essential elegance and proportions required to re-create the classic beauty of the best orangeries. Properly built to look beautiful and last a lifetime.

Maximum light maximum enjoyment

An orangerie is a versatile and flexible space that lets you get the maximum use out of it, regardless of the season.

Lounge, home office, hobby room or play area. Somewhere to take morning coffee or an after-dinner nightcap. A place to entertain or chat with friends and family - or just to enjoy, quietly, by yourself. You may well find that your new room is the most popular in the house.

Light-filled all year long, warm and cosy in the winter or filled with fresh summer breezes, your own orangerie will make you wonder how you ever managed without it.
